EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Seasoned operations and business development leader with 15+ years driving P&L performance, team development, and strategic growth across multi-property hospitality portfolios — and a proven track record of building complex, revenue-generating products from scratch. Founded Ready Set Fly in 2020, a full-stack SaaS platform for general aviation pilots, taking it from business concept and self-taught development through a deployed multi-platform product with an active investor raise and defined go-to-market strategy. Simultaneously created Noise & Fury: The Last Great Rock Era, a WGA-registered prestige television series with a producer attached, advancing from series bible to fully scripted episodes with pitch materials in market.

Brings a rare combination of financial discipline, operational scale, technical product development, and creative IP execution. Thrives at the intersection of strategy and build — equally at home in an owner meeting reviewing a P&L, a product sprint, or a writers' room. A high-agency operator who identifies opportunities, builds systems, leads teams, and executes with long-term discipline. Seeking senior business development or operations leadership roles in aviation technology, hospitality tech, media and entertainment, or growth-stage companies where a differentiated builder's background creates real competitive advantage.
